Prof Senate Holds First Group Meet

Headquarters office of the state colleges in Inglewood was the site of the first meeting of the statewide Academic Senate on Thursday, May 14.

Designed to give faculty representatives from each campus a vote in developing academic policies and standards, the Senate was formed as an advisory body and adopted by an all faculty vote. The Senate deals with such areas as curriculum, promotion and tenure of faculty, and academic standards.

Drafted by instructional and administrative faculty members of the 17 state colleges at the request of Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke, the Senate represents a new approach to administrative and curriculum problems.

Each of the state colleges is represented by two or three elected members, depending upon the size of the faculty of the individual colleges. Colleges in the planning state were able to send one non-voting member to this first meeting.

Chairman of the State College board of trustees, Louis H. Heilbron, has previously said that the trustees are sensitive to the importance of obtaining faculty counsel, and look with great interest and favor on the development of the Senate.

The Nerve of Failure

Billings Says Farewell

By JIM SHOCK

After being introduced by Dr. John Livingston as a "man honored this year and gone the next, Dr. Thomas Billings Wednesday addressed an attentive audience of more than 1,000 in the Men's Gymnasium on the topic The Nerve of Failure.

Billings said, in a voice choked with emotion, that this was a happy and a sad moment. Happy because of the honor granted him by the faculty in chosing him to speak at the Fifth Annual Faculty Convocation, and sad because this was the conclusion of a 10 year teaching career. The last three years had been at Sacramento State College where he has developed intense emotional ties.

Upon leaving, he is going to go back to the primitive custom of leaving his prize possessions to those who will stay, he said.

Two Groups

He compared society to two main groupings — shepherds and hunters. The shepherds he said were prudent, solid and didn't take chances. To them "truth is security" and "contentment and security are the aims of life."

The hunters, on the other hand, are "born curious about all things. They glory in chance and solitude. He prefers loneliness to security, for a reason only God knows," Billings said.

Billings stated that the discoveries of the hunters are the mainstay of shepherds. When the two groups realize and recognize this fact, then the situation is ideal, he said.

Another way of grouping these classifications is the conforming man as compared with the individual, Billings stated.

Basic Premise

He then launched into what appeared to be his basic premise of life. "The price paid for freedom is, and has always been, the same. The price is paid in installments and this is done by trying to determine 'self'."

"Self is a verb." And it is up to the individual to "accept the gift of self and to labor daily to determine self. In this effort each day man is in isolation, moving forward—seeking fulfillness and his philosophy."

Some have a "failure of nerve at the desert of loneliness and rush back to the village. Those who procede have the Nerve of Failure," he said.

Gives Examples

Billings cited several old testament figures as examples of the hunter. He said that Jeremiah, Jonah and Jesus were good examples who showed that they had the nerve of failure. "In fact," he said, "Jesus had an acceptance of self and the nerve of failure that has lasted 200 years."

But not all of the hunter type were ancient heros. Billings said that Tom Payne, Mark Twain and Emily Dickinson were also of this classification. In Emily Dickinson's case he said that "she did not give up the world but removed herself from it."

Closing Words

He said that "people are in a hurry to imitate what is popular but that salvation depends on the non-conformist." It is Billings' view that radical direction must be taken to survive.

Billings closed his talk with these two sentences. "What is the use of running on the wrong road? No merit is necessary when you're on the right side."

Foreign University Program Approved

Three colleges have been approved for classes next fall as part of the new California State College overseas program.

Approval was given at this month's Board of Trustees meeting held at Humboldt State College.

Trustees voted to initiate a voluntary program of study abroad for California State College students at Berlin University, Aix-Marseilles in France and the University of Tai-Wan, Formosa.

Trustees also gave Chancellor of colleges, Dr. Glenn S. Dumke, authority to approve other colleges.

Step Forward

The program is open to all qualified state college students. The system will not build new campuses abroad, but will function under a co-operative agreement between California colleges and the host universities.

Lt. Governor Glenn M. Anderson has hailed the program as a great forward step in broadening our scholastic horizons.

He said, "This new departure in our State College program provides our students with one more valuable opportunity for an excellent education. At the same time, we are opening another avenue for international exchange for ideas."

Complete Success

Anderson described the program as excellently designed, with clearly defined educational and professional objectives. He mentioned that because similar programs are now being utilized at other public and state colleges and universities, he has every reason to believe that the new plan will be a complete success.

"I am confident that in time, universities in other foreign countries will be added to the California State College list," the Lt. Governor said.

The lowest possible cost has been arranged for students participating in the program.

Bircher to Speak Here Monday

Former Congressman John H. Rousselot, District Governor of the John Birch Society for the six western states, will speak in the Men's Gymnasium Monday from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m.

Rousselot's speech is being sponsored by the Academic Enrichment Committee. A question and answer period will follow the address.

Rousselot was one of the Birch Society congressional candidates in Los Angeles who was defeated last November. He lives with his wife and three children in Arcadia.

Two One-Act Operas Schedule Performance

Two one-act operas, Intervals by David Burge and Paul Jackson, and Sterlingham or Generosity Rewarded by Klaus George Roy, will be presented on Friday and Saturday, May 31 and June 1, by the Opera Workshop as the final program in the annual May Music Festival.

John M. Lewis, associate professor of music, is musical director for both productions with Legrand Anderson, graduate student, conducting the David Burge opera. Gerard Larson, associate professor of speech arts, is stage director and Larry Shumate is set designer.

Louis O. Clayson, assistant professor of music, will take the part of Arnold Ableson, the lead in Intervals, which he first created in the world premiere of the opera at Whitman College in 1961.

Cast Members

Burge, the composer, and Jackson, the librettist, were members of the Whitman College faculty when Clayson was associated with that college.

Other members of the Intervals cast include Barbara Cooper as Mrs. Bee; William Chase as Mr. Crumbley; Shiela Wolfe as Desdemona; Hazel Johnson as Dorothy; and Diana Draper as Eleanor.

Theme of this chamber opera is man's attempts, often frustrating, to get along with his fellowman.

Cast in the major roles of Sterlingham are Tom Ribordy as the Stranger; Daniel Truhitte as an Old Man; Kristen Romeis as his wife; and Dennis Sheldon as a Vagabond.

Boston Premier

Sterlingham, premiered at Boston University, is an adaptation of a short story by Akady Averchenko. The plot revolves around an eccentric millionaire who goes out in the world dressed as a vagabond.

A special feature of this chamber opera will be a woodwind ensemble under the direction of Lewis.

Eugene Pritts will provide musical accompaniment for both one-act operas to which the public is invited free of charge. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m.

KRISTEN ROMEIS AND TOM RIBORDY rehearse a scene from a Sacramento State College Opera Workshop production, under the direction of John M. Lewis, (seated at the piano). "Sterlingman" or "Generosity Rewarded" by Klaus George Ray is the one-act opera which will open Friday, May 31 along with "Intervals" by David Burge. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m. in the SSC Little Theatre. Admission is free to the public. The performance will be repeated June 1.

Orientation Applications Accepted

Applications are now being accepted from students planning to return in the fall who are interested in serving as group discussion leaders for fall orinetation.

According to Dr. Margaret Mc Koane, associate dean of students, "Orientation meetings provide freshmen and transfer students with an opportunity to become aware of academic opportunities, student government and campus activities." Questions concerning academic standards, advising and the registration process also can be answered at that time.

Sixty students are needed as leaders. Ten students who served in the program last semester will act as a nucleus and assist in the training meeting for 50 other students that will take place September 16 under the direction of Dr. McKoane and Dr. Willys Folsom, associate dean of students.

Orientation meetings will take place on September 17.

All interested students should apply in the activities office, 272 Administration building, before June 7.

Alcoholic beverage policies will be the topic of discussion at the Inter-Club Council meeting Monday at 12 noon in 264 Administration building.

Two alternative policy statements concerning the consumption of alcoholic beverages at off-campus functions held by the ASSSC or by ASSSC recognized organizations have been prepared at the request of the Student Activities Committee and are to be presented for consideration.

The Student Activities Committee, in deciding upon a course of action, has requested the opinions and suggestions of those who will be most affected by the new policy.

StateColleges Offer Master In New Fields

Seventeen new masters degrees have been authorized by the Board of Trustees of California State Colleges to be granted at 9 of the 17 campuses in the system.

Dr. Glenn S. Dumke, Chancellor of the State Colleges, states, "The new degrees are an outgrowth of the master curricular plan for the State Colleges recently approved by the trustees to guide curriculum development and to prevent the unnecessary duplication of high-cost programs."

Dumke pointed to the master of social work degree authorized for Sacramento, Fresno and San Diego campuses as an example of its effectiveness.

The master of social work degree, now available at Sacramento State College, will help to satisfy the state's professional manpower need for social workers by serving Northern and Southern California and the San Joaquin Valley.

HOW TO SEE EUROPE FOR ONLY $300 A DAY: NO. 3

When all of you go to Europe during your summer vacation, you will certainly want to visit Spain, where the tall corn grows,

The first thing you will notice upon entering Spain is the absence of sibilants. In Spain "s" is pronounced "th" and thereby hangs a tale. Until the reign of Philip IV—or Guy Fawkes, as he was sometimes called—Spaniards said "s" just like everybody else. Philip IV, however, lisped, and Spaniards, having an ingrained sense of propriety and not wishing to embarrass their monarch, decided that everybody should lisp. This did indeed put Philip IV very much at his ease, but in the end it turned out to be a very bad thing for Spain. It wrecked the sassafras industry—Spain's principal source of revenue—and reduced the nation to a second-class power.

As a result, Spaniards were all forced to turn to bull fighting in order to keep body and soul together. Today, wherever you go in Spain—in Madrid, in Barcelona, in Toledo, in Cleveland—you will see bulls being fought. For many years the bulls have sought to arbitrate this long-standing dispute, but the Spaniards, a proud people who use nothing but Castile soap, have rejected all overtures.

It is therefore necessary for me to explain bull fighting to anyone who is going to Spain. It is also necessary for me to say a few words about Marlboro Cigarettes because they pay me for writing this column, and they are inclined to pout if I ignore their product. In truth, it is no chore for me to sing the praises of Marlboro Cigarettes, for I am one who fairly swoons with delight when I come upon a cigarette which gives you the full, rich taste of good tobaccos plus the pure white Selectrate filter, and Marlboro is the only smoke I have found that fulfills both requirements. Oh, what a piece of work is Marlboro! The flavor reaches you without stint or diminution. You, even as I, will find these statements to be happily true when once you light a Marlboro. Marlboros come to you in soft pack or Flip-Top box, and are made only by the makers of Marlboro.

But I digress. Let us return to bull fighting. Bulls are by nature bellicose creatures who will keep fighting till the cows come home. Then they like to put on pipe and slippers and listen to the "Farm and Home Hour." However, the Spaniards will not allow the bulls any surcease. They keep attacking the bull and making veronicas—a corn meal pancake filled with ground meat. Bulls, being vegetarians, reject the veronicas and then, believe you me, the fur starts to fly!

To be perfectly honest, many Spaniards have grown weary of this incessant struggle and have left their homeland. Columbus, for example, took off in three little ships—the Patti, the Maxene, and the Laverne—and discovered Ohio. Magellan later discovered Columbus. Balboa also sailed to the New World, but he was silent on a peak in Darien, so it is difficult to know what he discovered.

Well sir, I guess that's all you need to know about Spain. So now, as the setting sun casts its rosy fingers over El Greco, let us take our reluctant leave of Spain—or Perfidious Albion, as it is jocularly called. Aloha, Spain or Perfidious Albion, aloha!

© 1963 Max Shulman

* * *

Let us not, however, take our leave of smoking pleasure. Let us keep enjoying those fine Marlboro Cigarettes—rich, golden tobacco—pure white Selectrate filter—soft pack or Flip-Top box—available in all fifty States of the Union.
